Texas vs. The Preachers Saturday, October 13

THE SOLDIERS CAPITULATE.

The first football game of the season, which was played on Clark Field last Saturday with the soldiers from Fort Sam Houston, proved an easy victory for Texas, as the score of 21 to 0 indicates. The soldiers, while they had strong, gritty men, some of whom are good players individually, lacked team work, and they were to anticipate and stop the plays of the other side. They lack the advantages of the training table, regular practice, a large squad from which to pick a team, and strong enthusiasm to back it, all of which, with a college team, are matters of course. Throughout the entire game they contented themselves with kicking the ball back into Texas' territory, ordinarily without even trying to advance it by other methods first.

Texas showed up well in the game, some of the men doing even better than was expected of them, and Coach Schenker expressed himself as pleased with the results. The back field showed up well and the work in the line was satisfactory. Texas' weakest point, it appears from the game, is in goal kicking, only one out of four being made. This, however, is easily remedied, and several of the men have already been put along this line and improvement may be expected in tomorrow's game.

The test of the new rules, which was tried almost entirely in the first half, was not altogether satisfactory. The game, it is true, was somewhat more open, but the forward pass, save for one or two short gains, proved a failure. This should not, however, be the last word in the matter, for Texas has not yet had sufficient practice in this play to reduce it to the science which all concede to be necessary, before it becomes a reliable or even a safe play. Nor did the "one side kick" do all that was expected of it, although it, too, may with more practice prove more satisfactory. The game also demonstrated the difficulty of gaining ten yards in three downs, for, notwithstanding the superiority of the Texas team, she frequently lost the ball to her opponents, who were invariably forced to kick. In the second half, however, fake plays and the other tactics which the new rules encourage, were practically abandoned by Texas and straight, old-fashioned methods adopted with much more satisfactory results.

The soldiers, when seen after the game, complimented Texas' team and unanimously expressed themselves as pleased with the cleanness of their game and the entire absence of slugging and other such tactics which characterized it.

Easily the star of the game was Fred Ramsdell, for not only was he Texas' most consistent ground gainer, but most of his plays were such as to arouse interest on the side lines, while his 75 yard run for a touchdown was the feature of the game. Adams also did excellent work, frequently making good gains and several long runs. Caldwell, too, did his part, going through the line consistently time after time. Ben Dyer, at quarter, used his head well and displayed good judgment in selecting his plays and ability in executing them. Williams also played a good game at quarter, and made an exciting 40-yard run. And Krah, at full, went through the line in good fashion. In the line the best work was done by Fink, R. Ramsdell and Feldayke. Taylor, for the soldiers, did some excellent kicking, and Bartlett, at quarter, would no doubt have sustained his West Point reputation had he but had the opportunity.

Texas' prospects for the season now seem good, and only Parrish and McMahon are needed in the game to make them excellent.

The Statesman has at last found something to criticize. There was an absence of rooting and an apparent lack of interest on the part of the students at Saturday's game. But this was due largely to the fact that the game was generally thought to be an easy one for Texas. And this is no unpardonable sin, for a team does not need encouragement when everything is going its way. But just wait until a hard game comes, and we predict that no fault will be found with the rooting, for the students, we are sure, will do their part toward helping the team to win.

The Game in Detail

The soldiers kick off to Texas; Williams secures the ball and returns 5 yards; Adams goes through for 10; Texas bucks, but fails, but gains 6 yards on the next try; Ramsdell goes through, but the soldiers secure the ball. Taylor kicks. Williams secures the ball and runs 15 yards; Krah gains 4, but Texas is penalized for hurdling; Ramsdell circles the end for 30 yards; Adams makes 5 and then 12, and R. Ramsdell breaks through for 8; Williams makes quarter back run for 10 yards; Adams bucks 3 and 7 1-2; Texas gains 9 and after bucking for another small gain, sends Ramsdell over for a touchdown. Time, 7 minutes, 15 seconds.

Mainland fails to kick goal.

The soldiers kick to Texas and Mainland gets ball; Texas loses ball to soldiers on forward pass; Taylor bucks, but is thrown for a loss; soldiers kick and Williams returns 2 yards; Rams-

The Magazine--Points Good, Bad and Indifferent

EXCELLS OTHER RECENT ISSUES.

The first issue of the 1906-7 University of Texas Magazine made its appearance on the 4th inst.—a rather early arrival, for in recent years the Magazine has come out at any time from the 15th to the 33rd of the month in which it purports to be issued. In this—arrival—as in many other praiseworthy features, it far eclipses any other recent issue of the 'Varsity Monthly, for which excellence deference is due the board and its enterprising business manager.

The unique cover design—the title, "The University of Texas Magazine, October, 1906," and the seal of the University, on a white background—is only exceeded in attractiveness by the assortment and arrangement of the literary productions within the covers.

The first prose selection, "Tis an Ill Wind," is a very good depiction of life as it might happen. Of "Seein' Things at Night," so much can not be said. It is to be hoped, however, though the production itself does not indicate it, that the author of "Seein' Things at Night" has passed the stage of human existence of which he writes so pathetically in his essay.

"The Last Sonata" is very good, but the narrated exchange of persons—all unknown to the reader of the last sonata—and the calm, unpausing manner in which she witnessed the osculatory salutation of the changed person of the pianist's 17-year-old charge, seems a little overdrawn. But maybe it's real. Read it, and see what you think about it.

"The Lady or the Tiger" is a corker, and, surely, the production of a literary genius—jurist, by the way—who quitted these halls and corridors at the end of last term. At least, as one unfolds the plot of "The Lady or the Tiger," there lurks in memory the picture of the pair of long legs, the awkward feet, the half-burned cigar, and the ill-fitting lenses of an erstwhile lawyer candidate for literary honors among us. Answering the question that the author left unsettled, the Man rapped at the door to the Tiger's Den—but the "blindness" of the Tiger made escape easily possible.

"The Proverbs of a Senur" are, in many respects, excellent, and show, on the part of the Senur, an intimate knowledge of many sides of 'Varsity life. His special hobby, though, seems to have been the pursuit of the co-eds—a pastime more instructive than entertaining, evidently. A perusal of No. 47, or No. 31, is worth to any uninitiated ed. the price of a yearly subscription of the magazine.

"Chit-Chat" is simply chit-chat, and that is all there is to say about it.

The Book Reviews, "A Tale of Japan," "From a Cornish Window," and "Philosophy Four" are good. This department should be encouraged and contributed to by the book-reading students.

Verse is essentially bad, in whatever form you put it—but not all of the Magazine's rhymes are "verse" (though it is styled such), nor all its verse rhymes.

The frontispiece, "A Translation"—from what, nobody knows—would probably cause the sighing myriads, that "cry out in terror" to change their wall could they see the translation.

"A Kiss" is pleasant—perusing; but a disappointment to one's anticipations, in the end.

"A Toast," addressed to the various "girls," is intended, evidently, as a compliment to the freshman girl; but—

"The Varsity Belles," with apologies to poor Edgar Poe, who probably doesn't care anything about it, is a mess—the worst in the Magazine. The apologies should have been addressed to the 'Varsity Belles; unless the poet had reference to his own ladies-kin—in which event, he should be put back in frocks at his mother's apron strings. Let it be hoped that the observations, if any, which inspired "The Varsity Belles" were confined to his own social circle. "My Queen," by same author, ends with: "My Queen, canst thou not play a kinder part?"

I faint, I fall—thou hast broken my heart," which, if true, is not surprising. She probably read "The Varsity Belles."

"Bible Lyrics" reminds one of last year's contributions by "The Methodist Minister's Son," who is probably the author of this. It gives a turn to sacred history that might be appreciated by the occupant of the Texas Bible Chair, or other Bible students.

Interesting, too, is the assortment of little four to six line verses—"space fillers," as they are better known—scattered through the Magazine. Especially worthy of comment and perusal is "Perseverance."

Editorials are well assorted—too well assorted, in fact. "A Welcome," beginning with the information "Again we behold the dear old University," and the more startling information that it is now three months since we left its entrance, and ending with a welcome to the prodigals and a farewell to the departed, opens the program of editorials. "To the Mavericks" follows, giving to the freshmen (presumably), in an a la burlesque recital, some rather prosaic, but cheerful, information as to the ways of the Varsity. Then "Back to Work" tells us, cunningly, that it is time to get busy, for fall is here again.

The Literary Societies.

ATHENAEUM

The first meeting of the Athenaeum for the current session was held Saturday evening. The meeting was largely attended by old members and visitors—prospective members. A goodly number of new men were taken into the membership. An excellent program was rendered, and great interest and enthusiasm was manifested. The program in detail was as follows:

Declamation—W. C. McCutcheon.

Oration—E. L. Harris.

Debate—Resolved, "That U. S. Senators Should Be Elected by Popular Vote."

Affirmative—H. E. Bell, R. D. Jones.

Negative—Luther Nickels, J. M. Jones.

The negative side was given the decision.

The program for October 13 is as follows:

Declamation—E. F. Ferguson.

Oration—Jno. Russell.

Debate—Resolved, "That Texas Should Be Divided Into Two or More States."

Affirmative—Haynie, Calloway.

Negative—Byburn, Harkley.

THE RUSK

If the initiative meeting of the Rusk Literary Society be the criterion by which we are to forecast the successes of this year's work, the prospects for a banner year are indeed flattering. Saturday evening when the house was called to order by President Karcheville, the hall was already crowded. In a few moments all the seats were filled, the available space being taken up with extra chairs, and members were left standing about the windows and doorway.

A very interesting program was carried out, and regardless of the fact that the program was made out before the committee had any definite knowledge as to who would be back this year, nearly every man responded to his name, and acquitted himself most commendably. The program consisted of the following numbers:

Declamations—C. S. Davis, H. M. Hawkins, G. C. Cole.

Orations—C. Kendall, Alex. Wheelis.

Debate—Resolved, "That Suffrage in Texas Cities Should Be Restricted to Real Property Holders."

Affirmative—J. I. Karcheville and J. H. Keen.

Negative—J. J. Strickland and E. T. Yates.

The judges rendered a decision in favor of the negative.

Among the visitors Saturday evening who addressed the society were Mr. Fenille, attorney general of Porto Rico; Dr. Peterson and Mr. Duhegany. Mr. Fenille was an active member of The Rusk twenty years ago. He expressed himself as being very favorably impressed with the work of the society.

The following men were elected to active membership: H. Davenport, J. C. Wilkerson, H. W. Fielder, T. Young, W. E. Neeley, L. G. Carter, Bruce Banks, Jesse Garrett, T. R. Boone, H. O. Norwood, P. W. Jeffery, Roy Cousins, Leslie Humphrey, J. T. Brooks, Edwin Hull, G. C. Fair, E. T. Yates, Mr. Trencor, W. L. Tittle, H. G. Oliver.

The program for next Saturday evening is as follows:

Declamations—A. L. Meadows, P. M. Fahey, O. L. Newton.

Orations—C. Alexander, J. V. Haenell, J. A. Crawford.

Debate—Resolved, "That the Railroad Commission Was Justified in Ordering a Reduction in the H. & T. C. Fare."

Affirmative—F. W. Householder, J. N. Keith.

Negative—Mr. Rice, J. E. Vickers.

Everybody is invited to be present.

ROBERT S. GOULD LAW SOCIETY.

President Taub of the Robt. S. Gould Law Society called a special meeting Tuesday evening for the purpose of electing officers for the fall term, and attending to any other business which might come before the society. The following officers were elected:

Adrian Pool, president; Robt. Haynie, vice president; J. H. Jones, secretary and treasurer, and Rice Clerk, W. C. Beasley, E. G. Calloway, Geo. Bean and F. M. Byburn were elected to membership.

The following gentlemen were named by the president as constituting committees: A. Pope, Haynie and Taub committee to draft resolutions upon the death of our worthy member and ex-president, W. G. Shaw; Leslie, Patterson and Graves, program committee No. 1; Haynie, Taub and Francis, program committee No. 2.

Friday night of each week was selected as time of regular meetings, the first being set for Friday, October 26, at which time a full and regular program will be carried out.

Five to seven.

Five hundred invitations were sent out by the Phi Gamma Delta's to their reception on Tuesday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with college pennants and rare plants. At night the house was thrown open to the receiving party for an informal dance. All report the Phi Gam's as ideal hosts, and their fraternity home especially suited for entertaining.

TEXAS v. THE PREACHERS.

dell goes through and fumbles, but recovers. A forward pass to Adams nets 6 yards. Ball goes out of bounds on quarter back kick, but is secured by Texas and 4 yards gained on a buck. Williams gains 3 and Adams goes around end for 35, but Texas is penalized for holding. A forward pass to Duncan gives Texas 7 yards. Texas offside and soldiers' ball. Taylor kicks out of bounds. Ramsdell gains 6 yards. Texas bucks 3. Ramsdell goes through for 4 and Adams makes 25 around the end. Snider relieves Hewitt at full. Ramsdell gains 6, Krah 8 and Fink 5 yards; Ramsdell goes through for 10, but Texas loses ball on forward pass. The soldiers kick and Krah returns 25 yards; Ramsdell gains 5 and another is added by a buck; Ramsdell fails to gain and the soldiers secure the ball. Time is called with the ball on the soldiers' 15-yard line.

Second Half—Dyer goes in at quarter for Texas and Caldwell takes right half. Texas kicks off to the soldiers, but the ball goes out of bounds. On the second kick Bartlett returns 12 yards. The soldiers kick. Krah receives the ball and advances it 7 yards; Ramsdell goes through for 6 yards and Krah bucks 2. The soldiers secure the ball and Taylor punts 65 yards; Dyer returns it 5; Ramsdell gains 5. The soldiers are penalized 10 yards for holding. Caldwell goes through for 5 yards and Ramsdell for 7; Krah makes 2 and then 7; Krah makes 2 again; Ramsdell 3 and Caldwell 6. Weinert relieves Mainland. The soldiers are penalized 5 yards. Texas fumbles, but recovers and Ramsdell gains 9 yards and then 3; Caldwell goes through for 6 and Krah 2; Ramsdell makes 3 and Krah goes over for a touchdown. Time, 10 minutes. Caldwell kicks goal. The soldiers kick off and Fink secures the ball. Scoggins takes Fink's place. Texas gains 12 yards; Caldwell goes through for 10 and Ramsdell makes 18, but Texas is penalized for being offside. Ramsdell cleared the end for 17; Caldwell gains 10 and R. Ramsdell bucks through for 2; Caldwell makes 7 and Texas makes two short gains and Ramsdell goes through for 10; Caldwell makes 4 and 3 more is added on buck. Walker takes Caldwell's place. The soldiers obtain the ball and kick. Harley falls on the ball; Krah goes through for 5 yards and Ramsdell for 6; Ramsdell runs 32 yards and Krah goes over for a touchdown. Time, 4 minutes. R. Ramsdell fails to kick goal. Lipscomb takes Harley's place. The soldiers kick off and Ramsdell returns the ball 10 yards; Ramsdell goes around right end 75 yards for a touchdown. Time, 15 seconds. The soldiers kick off and Feldayke returns the ball 5 yards; Ramsdell makes 7; Walker gains 4 and Ramsdell 9; Krah gains 4 and Ramsdell bucks 3, but loses 2 on the next buck; Dyer attempts to drop kick and misses; Taylor returns kick for soldiers, and ball is muffed, but is secured by Bob Ramsdell; Fred Ramsdell goes through for 15 yards.

Substitutes—Texas, Caldwell, Walker, Scoggins; soldiers, Youngs, Dunn, Schneider.

THE MAGAZINE.

And "philosophy 23"—evidently placed in the editorial column through mistake—makes some observations that it is impossible to harmonize with the ordinary conception of an editorial. "A Contest," by the editor-in-chief, closes the selection, with the statement that in the near future there will be organized a regular monthly short-story contest in which the students of the leading colleges and universities of the south will appreciate. This contest, it is hoped, will draw out the best talent of our University.

Exchanges are, of course, short, there being practically nothing to comment upon at this early date.

For the last comment has been reserved the saddest, but best, contribution to the Magazine, the passionate eulogy of a whole-souled man (we say "man" for the reason that some may not understand when they read it) to his departed friend—William Gill Shaw. The most sacred, the most beautiful, thing on earth is friendship; the most pathetic, the effort of a human to pay a just tribute to a departed friend—an effort in which no man has ever succeeded, the fault being with the head. So let us close the comment on the unfinished work of Mr. Pope.

Viewed as a whole, the October Magazine is good. The editorial announcement: "The University of Texas Magazine is published . . . on the first of each month during the college year," sounds more like a prophecy than a statement of fact; but, if it be a prophecy, let us hope that the future of the magazine may give to the prophet honor even in "her" own country—honor, not only as a prophet, but as an editor.

The Glee Club met on Monday with about thirty men present, several of whom were new men. After about thirty minutes hard practice the matter of a director for the year was discussed, and a policy of procedure suggested. But no definite action was taken in the matter except that a committee of investigation was appointed. There seems to be an abundance of material for a good club this year, bassos being more numerous than the tenors.

A football rally is to be held in the auditorium tonight. Let every student attend it. The management assures us upon their honor that no requests for library deposits will be made. A team without enthusiasm behind it is sure to be a dead one.

KNOCK THE KNOCKERS.

The corridor presidents, deans, doctors and professors were very busy people during matriculation days; the painless method of registration was very much in demand and use among the green-foliaged new comers. These dignified and accommodating gentlemen created worlds of fun for themselves and onlookers, but it was legitimate fun—really they performed a philanthropic work because more protruding verdancy was amputated by their methods than would have been eliminated in months without their assistance. There has, of course, been some "guiding" of freshmen since, but it has been good-humored and gentle. The conduct of the old students toward the new, and the conduct of the new ones toward one another, has, on the whole, been remarkably courteous and considerate.

So far, there has been no vicious "ebullitions of spirit," no rowdism, no tank scrap; neither has the man with the paint brush been abroad in the land. The student body has settled down to work, for once, without a destruction of property or a boom for the court-plaster trust. We have done well!

Let's continue the excellent course. There is a good reason for it, a two-fold reason. When a student enters the University of Texas he is supposed to be a man, or, at least, to be sufficiently mature to act a man's part—he is supposed to have put away the really childish things; as to whatever rowdism may have been inculcated in his character or incorporated in his habits, it were superfluous to say that he is expected to divest himself of it speedily; or, at all events, to hold it in check.

The Texan believes that it is a magnificent privilege and opportunity to be connected with a great university; it believes that the dignity of the position is such as ought to sober the mercurial disposition of youths, and to inspire in its stead a high and holy regard for law and order, a gentlemanly respect for constituted authority, and a chivalrous consideration for the rights of others. We are a constituent element of a great university—the greatest, perhaps, in the south, the best in the world! Let us once recognize and appreciate the dignity of our situation and the unseemly scrambles between departments and the vicious outbursts of class spirit will be no more.

The other reason why we should be on our good behavior is a vulgar one, but it is a reason potent and persuasive nevertheless. The Thirtieth legislature convenes on the tenth day of January. We are dependent upon the Thirtieth legislature, in a large measure, for financial support; we want that law building—our wants are legion, our needs numerous and imperative. Indiscretion in deportment, slight as it may seem to us, assumes the proportions of gross misconduct in the eyes of the public; gentlemanly conduct is one of the things that will influence the legislature to grant our requests; real or exaggerated misconduct is a thing that may defeat our purposes. If we really love old Texas, we will be good. If we can not possibly be good, let's be careful at all events.

The Christian Associations

Y. W. AND Y. M. C. A. JOINT MEETING.

On Sunday afternoon the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. met in the auditorium in a joint meeting. Mr. Davis, our international secretary, made an earnest and helpful talk on "Christian Service," dealing especially with service in the foreign field. Mr. Davis is traveling in the interest of the Student's Volunteer movement. On Monday he remained in the Y. M. C. A. room, being at the disposal of any student who wished to consult with him about his or her religious life.

After the address Mr. Metzenthin favored the audience with a solo, which was highly enjoyed by all. We are indeed fortunate in having Mr. Metzenthin with us, and hope that he may often give us such a musical treat.

The attendance at these meetings still grow. On last Sunday 106 young men and 65 young ladies were present. See that you are not one of the few members that stay away.

At our next meeting Dr. Jewet will address the Y. M. C. A. Remember that if you do not come we shall miss you, and you may miss a blessing. Will you come?

Mr. W. T. Davis, the traveling secretary for the International Student Volunteer movement, has been here since Friday. Saturday morning he met with the volunteers of the University; at 2 p. m. he met the joint committees on Mission Study from the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s whom he assisted in outlining the work for the year. Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m. he addressed a joint meeting of Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. in the auditorium; and Monday at 5 o'clock p. m. he addressed the Y. W. C. A. Accounts of these meetings will be given elsewhere.

The president of the Y. M. C. A. called a meeting of the cabinet Monday afternoon, in which some vacancies on committees were filled, and some new men added to the membership, religious meetings, music and finance committees. That the new students may know whom to give their applications to and pay their membership fees to, the names of the membership and finance committees are given:

Membership—T. H. Shelby, C. D. King, Luther Nickels, E. H. Newton, E. Heinshon, E. L. Nunnally, H. L. Davis, A. L. Meadows and R. J. Turrentine.

The new members may pay their fees to any one of the following of the finance committee at the places named:

1. To Mr. Crutchfield at the Y. M. C. A. room.
2. To Quaid or Postal clerk at the University postoffice.
3. Scot Brown at engineering exchange.
4. H. C. McClure at the law stenographer's office.

Y. W. C. A.

A very interesting meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association was held Monday afternoon at the usual hours. The large number present was very encouraging to all those interested in the work and success of the association.

tion. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Miss Aden, general secretary; Miss Knox, president; Miss Caldwell, vice-president, and Miss Stuart, treasurer.

It was decided by vote that this association should ask for affiliation with the new movement—that is, the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States of America. Most of the meeting was taken up with reports from the several conferences which had been attended during the summer by members from our college.

Miss Aden reported on the Winona Lake conference, and not only gave us an insight into the serious part of the conference, but also told us of an interesting boat race in which she and Miss Batchelder came out third.

By reports of the different delegates, Texas was found to have more members in the Y. W. C. A. in proportion to the number of students than any other state except Ohio.

Miss Waggener next reported on the Silver Bay conference. Among the six hundred delegates to the conference, Miss Waggener was the only one from Texas.

Mr. Davis, traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer movement, by special request, said a few words to us about the Northfield and Lake Geneva conferences, both of which he had visited during the summer.

After the regular meeting an invitation to join the association was offered to all those present, who were not already members. Fourteen girls accepted the invitation and filled out the application blanks.

The teas, which were given every Tuesday last year, will be continued this year, and the faculty and all the women students are invited to attend.

This year promises to be a bright and very successful one for the Young Women's Christian Association.

NOTICE.

Attention is hereby called to Art. 4, Sec. 2b, of the Constitution of the Students' Association, which provides for departmental elections to be held next Monday, October 15, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of electing representatives to the Student's Council.

Some classes, anticipating this, have already selected representatives. These selections were not legal elections, but may, if the classes so desire, amount to endorsements or nominations. The elections must be in departmental meetings.

Article IV, Sec. 2b. "The members of the executive committee shall be elected by the several departments in separate meetings for the purpose which shall be held at 3 o'clock on Monday just preceding the regular meeting of the Student's Association in October" (which is the third Tuesday in October)

Further: The first regular meeting of the Student's Association will be held in the auditorium Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

RADIATOR

CERTAIN MAXIMS OF A HAYSEED, II

If she boast of her "warmth of affection"
And snuggle to keep it yet warm,
A paradox know she has spoken—
And hold her the length of your arm.
It is cold that congeals and is constant,
And heat that expands—to your harm.

THE DIGNIFIED SOPH.

There's a certain type of fellow, awful bad,
Who seems like 30 cents without
the 3;

He's truly called the "egotistic cad,"
This Freshman with a Sophomore degree!

In his first year he was very meek and mild,
And his trousers always hung loose
at the knee,
His visage was the countenance of a child—
But he didn't have his Sophomore degree!

Then he looked upon the "uppers" as above him,
Didn't cuss when he was told to do
a chore,
Kept strictly at his studies for he loved them;
But that's before he 'came a Sophomore.

He used to lift his hat and say "good morning,"
His manners were as nice as they could be;
His accents ever pleasant never scorning—
That was ere he got his Sophomore degree!

Now notice, if you please, the transformation
Of this chesty, strutting gobbler, hully gee—
He acts as if he owned the entire nation,
Though he only has his Sophomore degree.

His suit is from the very latest fashions,
His hat and shoes are "lovely" things to see;
He never "eats his meals" but "takes his rations,"
Since he has his "swagger Sophomore degree!"

Now "dash fel-low" is his favorite expression,
And "for the bloomin' Freshies, 22,"
Indeed he thinks he's almost perfection,
Since he "cabbaged on" that Sophomore degree!

Listen little Freshmen, I am speaking to you:

If you wish to live happy and free,
In choosing your friends beware of him who Makes "noises like a Sophomore degree."
